- Various skilled trade unions

Don't miss this exciting opportunity for High School students to explore the diverse careers in the construction industry.

What happens at Construction Career Days?

Students are introduced to the often overlooked, exciting and lucrative career opportunities in the construction industry. Industry representatives are present to answer students' questions regarding job opportunities and descriptions, salaries, and benefits.

Students are able to participate in numerous hands-on activities, including welding, operating excavators and other heavy equipment, and building toolboxes. Students also try out a crane simulator, learn to read electrical schematics, and much more.
